

So, what's next?

Are you a recent graduate in social work or a related field?

The new social work graduate program is your chance to make a difference working in a range of family violence roles across rural and regional Victoria.

With extensive training, development and mentoring opportunities, these positions are for 12 months and include funding to help cover your moving costs.

This could be the start of a career that's meaningful, challenging and rewarding.

What if a graduate program was the start of your new career in family violence?

Find out if you're eligible and how to apply for the program at familyviolence.vic.gov.au/graduates

If you, a child, or another person is in immediate danger, call triple zero (000). For help and support, call Safe Steps on 1800 015 188.