

Business climate

Despite the global pandemic, many employers adapted to maintain or grow their workforce. Employers had a mostly positive outlook for the year ahead.

Workforce

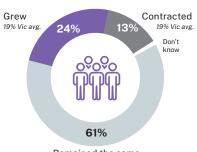

More employers reported growing their workforce over the past 12 months (compared to the state average).

Outlook

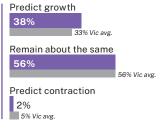

Employers in the industry were optimistic about their business outlook. More expected to grow and fewer expected to contract over the coming year.

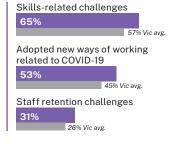

Impacts of COVID-19

COVID-19 skills-related challenges experienced by employers in the industry were higher than the state average.

Finding candidates with the right skills presented the most common skill challenge in the past year. More employers are expecting skill shortages in 2022 than in 2021.

Skills shortages

Almost one in five employers in the industry expect to face skills shortages in 2022. This was lower than the state average.

Skills challenges

The top skills challenges reported by employers were the same across all industries. They were:

Skills needs

More employers in this industry reported needing workers with the right mindset or with jobready skills compared to the state average.

Indicates state wide average for Victoria

Most employers in the industry had undertaken some recruitment activity over the past year and the majority reported experiencing challenges.

Recruitment need

More employers in the industry undertook some form of recruitment over the past 12 months, compared to the state average.

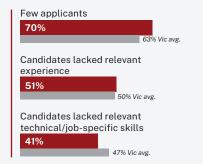

Recruitment challenges

Almost four in five employers reported having difficulties recruiting for particular roles. This was higher than the state average.

Type of challenge

The most common challenges faced by employers were related to the number, experience and jobspecific skills of candidates.

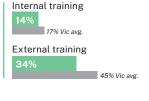

Over three-quarters of employers in the industry engaged in some form of staff training.

Engagement in training

More employers in the industry used both internal and external training (52% compared to 37% state average). Fewer used internal or external training only.

Satisfaction with training

Levels of satisfaction with training were higher than the state average.

Helped staff do their job better 84% 81% Vic avg. Trainers had good industry knowledge 85% 80% Vic avg. Training was high quality 83% 76% Vic avg.

Skillsets

Two-thirds of employers said they would consider a skillset (micro credential or part qualification) rather than a full qualification to upskill their staff.

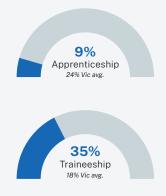

Employers continue to make use of apprentices, trainees and work placements to assist them in filling the skills pipeline.

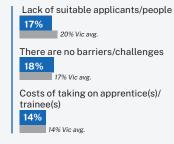

Apprentices and trainees

Uptake of trainees over the past 12 months was the highest among all industries.

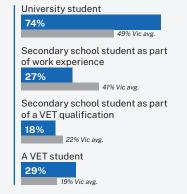

Challenges

Fewer employers in the industry cited lack of suitable applicants and not needing apprentices and trainees were a barriers.

Work placement students

More employers in the industry took on work placement students (46% compared to 21% for Victoria). The most common type of work placement students were:

Indicates state wide average for Victoria

