

Victorian Employer Satisfaction Survey

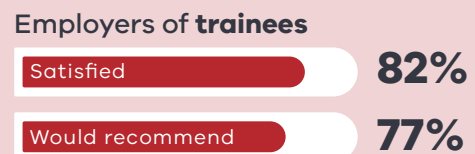

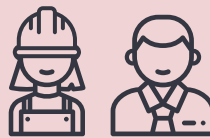

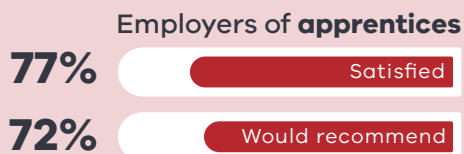

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE 2018 SURVEY

The Victorian Employer Satisfaction Survey ascertains the level of satisfaction of employers of apprentices and trainees with the training provided by Registered Training Organisations (RTOs). This includes satisfaction with skills improvement, teaching and training quality, and RTO engagement.

In 2018, the survey invited around 30,000 employers of apprentices and trainees who undertook training in 2017 to participate. A strong response rate of 35.9% provided the Department with high-quality evidence to measure employer satisfaction with training at Victorian RTOs.

The statistics below reflect the views of employers of apprentices and trainees with selected aspects of their training experience in 2017.
