Mr Con Stasinios
Director — Network Policy and Standards
VicRoads
Level 10, 1 Spring Street
MELBOURNE VIC 3000

Dear Mr Stasinios

I would like to thank your colleagues at VicRoads for working with my team on the preparation of the Regulatory Impact Statement (RIS) for the proposed Road Management (General) Regulations 2016. These are sunseting Regulations that prescribe requirements for a range of matters — including the Road Management Plans of road authorities, incident and condition reports, advertisements and hoardings, removal of certain items from roads and camping on road reserves — and set fees for property enquiries, and for advertisement and hoarding consent applications.

As you know, the former Victorian Competition and Efficiency Commission's role under Section 10 of the Subordinate Legislation Act 1994 was to provide independent advice on the adequacy of analysis presented in all RISs in Victoria. This assessment role has now been assigned to me, as the recently appointed Commissioner for Better Regulation.

It is important to emphasise that the Commissioner's role under the Act is not to provide a view on the merits of any policy or regulatory change but to advise on the adequacy or otherwise of a RIS. To be deemed 'adequate', a RIS must be logical, draw on relevant evidence, be transparent about any assumptions made, and be proportionate to the proposal's expected effects. It also needs to be suitable as a basis for public consultation.

I am pleased to advise you that the final version of the RIS received by us on 29 October 2015 meets the adequacy requirements of the Act.

The next step of consultation is important to enable public participation in the policy development process. We note that you have engaged with relevant stakeholders as you have developed the RIS and that the final version has benefitted from this engagement.

New options or information identified through the public consultation process may influence your analysis and recommendations. If you would like to discuss any such changes with us, please do not hesitate to contact me on (03) 9092 5800.

To ensure transparency, it is government policy that this letter be published when you release the RIS for public consultation.

Yours sincerely

Anna Cronin
Commissioner for Better Regulation
